6. Analytics, logs, cookies and similar technologies

When you access the website, certain technical information such as your IP address or device-related identifiers may be processed as a necessary part of establishing and securing the connection to the website. This information may also appear in server logs for limited periods for security, fraud prevention, troubleshooting and performance monitoring.

If twinlink.eu uses analytics tools, cookie banners or embedded third-party content, personal data may also be processed through cookies or similar technologies. Where cookies are not strictly necessary, twinlink.eu should request your consent before placing them. Refusing optional analytics or marketing cookies should not prevent normal browsing of the website.

A separate Cookie Policy or cookie banner should provide more detailed, up-to-date information on the specific cookies, retention periods and third-party providers actually used on the site.

7. Who may receive your personal data

Access to personal data is limited to persons who need it for their work. Depending on the service used, recipients may include:

- public authorities, supervisory authorities or law-enforcement bodies where disclosure is required by law or is necessary to protect rights, safety or security.

twinlink.eu does not sell personal data. Where third-party processors are used, they must act only on documented instructions and provide appropriate safeguards for confidentiality and security.

8. International transfers

As a rule, twinlink.eu aims to keep personal data within the European Economic Area. If a service provider processes personal data outside the EEA, twinlink.eu ensures that an appropriate transfer mechanism is in place, such as an adequacy decision, the European Commission's Standard Contractual Clauses, or another lawful safeguard.

9. How long we keep personal data

Personal data is not kept longer than necessary for the purposes for which it was collected, unless a longer retention period is required by law or justified for legal claims, compliance or archiving.

Processing activity	Indicative retention approach
Contact requests and general correspondence	Kept for as long as needed to respond and handle follow-up, then archived only where reasonably necessary.
Website security logs	Usually short retention, unless longer storage is needed for security incidents, abuse detection or legal obligations.
Newsletter or update subscriptions	Retained until you unsubscribe or the service is discontinued, plus limited suppression records where needed.
Event registrations	Kept for event administration and afterwards only for reporting, accounting or audit purposes where necessary.

A more detailed internal retention schedule should be maintained where multiple systems or service providers are involved.

10. How we protect personal data twinlink.eu takes appropriate technical and organisational measures to protect personal data against accidental or unlawful destruction, loss, alteration, unauthorised disclosure or access. These measures may include access controls, role-based permissions, secure hosting, encrypted connections, backup procedures, logging, vendor management and confidentiality obligations.

Subject to the conditions of applicable law, you may have the right to:

- request access to the personal data we hold about you;
- request correction of inaccurate or incomplete personal data;
- request deletion of your personal data;
- request restriction of processing;
- object to processing based on legitimate interests;
